I'm a student and I'm very interested in literature. I often spend my free time reading stories, novels... I have just read a short story, considered as a literary work , "Lao Hac", which was written by Nam Cao, a famous Vietnamese writer.

This story reflects the poverty and miseries of the poor, especially farmers who were attached to their land and village. The main character of the story is Mr Hac, a very poor farmer, whose son lives and works far away from home. He has a dog and it is his only close friend. Like other people at that time, Mr Hac is so poor that he cannot even support himself. Having nothing to eat to survive, he has to sell his only dog for a little money, but it doesn't help him continue his poor life long. When thinking about his child, he doesn't want to sell his house nor his small piece of land. He finds it impossible to suffer such miserable life any more. In the depth of despair, he kills himself.

To celebrate the Ho Chi Minh Communist Youth Union's Foundation Day, our school sport club recently played a friendly football match with Thang Long High school's Football team. The match was held at 2.30 p.m on 25th of march on our school's playground.

The match took place in cool weather, which was good for both teams. From the beginning, two teams played very excitingly. In the first half, we always kept the ball away from our goal and led the ball toward our visiting team. However, after 30 minutes, the opponents scored a goal. The goal was so fine that all of the audiences jumped up and cheered. From then on, the match became more exciting. In the second half, our team played in greater determination. One of our excellent defenders, Hung, took a ball and passed it skillfully to our striker, Lam, who gave a final kick into the goal. The stadium was "broken" again in the shouts and whistles of the spectators. It was one against one. The atmosphere at the stadium made the match became tenser and tenser. Both teams tried to win. Many good chances to make more score were missed. Everyone had tried their best but no more score was given.

To couples without children, women are reported to spend 30 hours per week doing housework whereas this number is only 20 hours for men. However, things are quite different when children enter the house. In families, of one or two children, men maintain approximately the same number of time doing housework as in childless households, but women's number of time doing housework as in 50 per week because it takes them more time to take care of their children.

With families that have 3 or more children, women have to work harder. They spend 55 hours a week doing housework while their husbands share with only 10.

These numbers shows the unequal distribution of housework hours per week between the two sexes. Therefore, if women are to gain social quality, they should first be liberated from familial responsibilities. This can only be done if men lend a more helpful hand to women in doing domestic chores.

Most large cities now have an underground system, like the French “Metro”. When you need to change trains, you usually ought to walk along bare, uninteresting corridors. Sometimes, if you are lucky, there will be “buckers”- people playing music in the hope of earning a few pence. They will be very pleased if you throw a few coins into the hat they have placed on the ground in front of them, but they will go on playing happily even if you don’t. These buckers give us a moment of pleasure as we wait for our trains. It is pity, then, that the authorities are against bucking, and do what they can to stop it. Buskers may be breaking the law, but I think that most people are glad to have little music to brighten their busy lives.
